Graffiti™ connections©, take you all over the world...

16.-

Don's back for the third time! Showin you the dutch graff exp(l)o(sion) in a summer-style.
Because the weather was so nice, the Don decided we could take a few days of, to walk along the dutch tracks. Also the polls indicated F0 is not very popular with the dutch autorities, so we put in some more trains... and for those who look at the news every night, he came up with a facts and figures page! So close the toilet cause you not gonna get out for days...

Concerned Train Driver Style 2000

Since we released our first issue, we've been getting a LOT of e-mails, some from writers some not:
I am a train driver and I was really shocked to discover your site, among a whole load of others which seem to glorify in the systematic destruction of the railway systems through Europe.
When I put my uniform on I want to feel pride at being a train driver but every day it seems that I am faced with new examples of defacement and vandalism. I suppose that the only good thing is that the readers of your site don't yet seem to have done much damage to the railway museums and I hope that at least they are safe. Try to imagine what effect this is all having on the average railway worker please. Some of us have chased vandals out of yards but we are increasingly worried for our own safety.

Wiesbaden Jam 2000

Wiesbaden (Germany) has a jam every year sayin it will be the last, So 'El don' formed a report squad to check it out. Situated near a small yard (see flik)! there is a deserted 'Schlachthoff' it was here where the jam took place. Present were: The NY squad (Seen, Cope, T-kid, P-jay), Neon, Fume, More, and a lot of other world-famous writers. The Dutch were represented by: Juice, the whole NES-crew and Mickey. When night came, cops came but there were just to many writers... it ended up in a molotov cocktail throwing trash party. Next year no jam...

Don't you like us? 2000

Based on the vacation photos we received, interrail seems to be the best invention ever, Graffitiwriters connecting all-country. We saw some crazy actions of dutchies in Sweden, Denmark, Germany, and swiss. However, France seems to be hot for the dutch graff scene (p.20). As seen on page 6-7 The crazy Germans visited us, Swedish , some English, El Mexicano, this crazy fin and Tech & Posh from SanFransisco followed. Hope to see you next year!
